

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Secretary Wallace Puts "Spotters" on A. A. A. Night Shift Workers

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has followed up the disclosures of the AAA Merry-Go-Round by placing three investigators on his AAA night shift. Their job is to check inefficient employees, report on workers going to sleep, and count the number of trips to adjacent beer emporiums. Several workers have been hauled up for this, the record of their work laid before their Congressmen.

There have been some dismissals, plus some close squeaks. Also there is talk of closing down the night shift of the AAA altogether because of extravagance and inefficiency. Note—AAA workers say they now have the three investigators spotted and aren't worried about them unless new ones are sent in unexpectedly.

Unfinished Business

Combat

If they are not careful, the two ablest members of the Roosevelt Cabinet are headed for a scrap. The two cabinetiers in question are Henry Wallace and Harold Ickes, and the difference that has come between them is the Forest Service. Both the Interior and Agricultural Departments want to regulate the Nation's forests. At present they are under Wallace's Agriculture Department. But the National Parks Service of Ickes' Interior Department claims that the forests are chiefly in the National Parks, and that present duplication of effort should be eliminated by transferring them to Interior.

The staffs of the two Departments are having it hot and heavy. Agriculture is sore at Interior over the administration of the new grazing bill, claims that the big grazers are being given the break over the little fellow. Agricultural experts also claim that soil erosion properly comes under its jurisdiction, is not being properly handled by Interior. They also cast covetous eyes at subsistence homesteads, say that this should be under their jurisdiction, since most of the population to be transferred is in farm areas.

So far only the underbays have been doing the rowing. But they have been egging Ickes and Wallace into the lists. Trouble is these two men are the best of friends, share the same progressive ideals, not long ago took a brief vacation together. It is hard to start them fighting.

Once mild-mannered Henry Wallace, urged by his subordinates to stand up against Ickes regarding the Forest Service, came back and reported:

"Well, I tried to talk to him about it, but I saw we weren't getting anywhere, so I just shut up."

Note—It looks as if the President would transfer the Forest Service to the Interior Department despite Agricultural protests.

Wall Street Drive

Pressure on the President for appointments on the Stock Market Commission is becoming more intense. Wall Street is now angling almost as much for the technical jobs on the Commission's staff as for jobs as Commissioners. One report from the Street is that a pool has been raised to finance an expert who will get a job as a technician on the Commission and be the inside tip-off man for New York. This would give Wall Street all it wants to know about what transpires on the inside.

As to the five Commissioners, Roosevelt must appoint two Republicans and three Democrats. Jim Landis, an author of the bill, is sure to be chairman.

Ben Cohen, another author, is

CLUES IN TUFVERSON MYSTERY SEEN IN U.S.

Believe Missing Attorney Was in Philadelphia; Hunt Turns There

PODERJAY GRILLED

Negro Maid Provides Possible Angle

By International News Service
The international search for Agnes C. Tufverson, missing New York woman attorney, turned from Europe back to the United States today.

Philadelphia police were drawn into the baffling case when it was disclosed that the missing woman probably visited that city just before she vanished on the eve of a scheduled European honeymoon with Captain Ivan Poderjay, international adventurer.

Poderjay, held by police, at Vienna, Austria, on a charge of bigamy, was being grilled almost continuously in an effort to throw some light on the case. His second bride also is being detained in the foreign country.

SMALL CLUE PROBED

Meanwhile, New York police studied a new but small clue in the strange case. Detectives questioning the missing woman's negro maid learned that on the night of December 20 Poderjay told the negro not to report for duty the next day. When the maid returned a day later, she found only Poderjay at the apartment.

Baffled in their efforts to determine what because of the brilliant corporation lawyer, New York authorities then turned their attention to methods by which her body may have been disposed of in the event that she was slain.

There was a possibility that the woman was still alive but it was generally believed she was dead because she had not responded to the hue and cry raised since her disappearance.

Police of Philadelphia, it was reported, were seeking a business man there with whom Miss Tufverson is believed to have conferred concerning some bank stock she owned. There was a possibility, police said, that Miss Tufverson had cashed the bank stock for funds for the honeymoon trip with her globe-trotting, adventuring husband.

In New York, Assistant District Attorney James T. Neary said he unearthed evidence indicating that Miss Tufverson and her bridegroom went to Philadelphia on December 15 or 16. It was believed that the Philadelphia business man might be able to shed some light on the case.

ALIVE DECEMBER 20

Miss Tufverson was last seen alive on December 20. Olaf Tufverson, father of the missing woman, when interviewed in his Grand Rapids, Mich., home, tearfully said that he firmly believed that his daughter is dead.

"I have known my daughter was dead since January," the old man said. "I know it here," and he placed his hand over his heart.

He said he had last heard from her at Christmas time last year. Miss Tufverson was his favorite daughter, other member of his family said.

ELECTION BOARD LETS CONTRACTS FOR ITS BALLOTS

The board of elections at its meeting Wednesday awarded contracts for the printing of ballots for the August primary of Fitzpatrick's Printer, this city, and tally sheets and poll books to the Columbus Blank Book Manufacturing Co. The bid on the ballots was $29.75 and for the sheets and poll books, $508.20.

Petitions of candidates were also approved by the board. None were rejected. M. B. Trout, clerk, announced.

Solution of Five Crimes Wins Praise

Ashville Writer Pays Tribute To County, Village Enforcement Officers.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is a letter received Thursday from an Ashville resident concerning the arrest of three men for a crime series in the Harrison-twp town.

"Ashville people breathed a sigh of relief Wednesday upon receipt of the news by phone and later verified by the complete details published in the county's wide-awake daily, The Circleville Herald, of the rounding up of the gang of petty thieves and hold-up artists who have been working overtime in the village.

In the past several months robberies have been committed at five different places, as follows: Grove and Rhodes, Stanley Beckett, Morris Hardware store, Leon Taylor's automobile, and last the holdup of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrison and Miss Frances Gerhart, who were taken for a 'ride' several miles in the country and relieved of about $350 in cash and checks.

BELIEVED SAME MEN

"These different jobs bore similar earmarks and the consensus of opinion has always been that they were at least planned, and possibly executed, by the same parties. These deductions have proven true.

"To Sheriff Radcliff and his efficient force, assisted by Marshal Weber and Constable Scott, is given the credit for cleaning up all these cases. The officials have

Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, Circleville R. F. D. 2, who has been in the hospital recovering from a minor operation, was discharged and returned to her home Thursday.

Mrs. Alva Courtwright, of Ashville, underwent a tonsil operation at Berger hospital, Thursday. Dr. C. G. Stewart performed the operation.

DEMAND HUBBELL'S NAME BE STRICKEN FROM OHIO CONTEST

COLUMBUS, June 21.—Demand upon the secretary of state that the name of Charles Hubbell, Cleveland, be expunged from the list of Democratic candidates for governor was made today by Attorney E. S. Johnson, Kent, who charged irregularities existed in Hubbell's nominating petitions. Hubbell filed approximately 1,500 signatures from 60 counties. The minimum requirement was 1,000 from 30 counties. Secretary of State George S. Myers promised an investigation of Johnson's charges.

Held With Poderjay

Here is a Viennese police Bertillon picture of Mme. Suzanne Ferrand sent by airplane to London and radioed to New York city, in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Agnes Tufverson, wealthy New York lawyer, wife of self-styled Captain Ivan Poderjay, now held in Vienna. Mme. Ferrand, said by police, to be married to Poderjay, was questioned concerning jewelry and clothing in her possession belonging to the missing woman.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. LANG, 49

Daughter of Late W. E. Caskey Succumbs in Lexington, Ky., Hospital.

Mrs. W. E. Lang, 49, daughter of the late W. E. Caskey, died Wednesday night in a hospital at Lexington, Ky. She underwent an appendicitis operation a week ago.

Mrs. W. E. Caskey, step-mother of the deceased, went to Lexington Monday and was at the bedside when death came.

The funeral will be conducted in Lexington Friday with additional services at the chapel in Forest cemetery Saturday at 2 p. m.

Besides her step-mother, Mrs. Lang is survived by her husband, two daughter, and her brother, W. E. Caskey, Jr.

FOUR BANDITS ROB OHIO BANK

Men Dressed in Farmers' Overalls Get $1,000 at West Unity, North Ohio.

bandits, dressed in farmers' overalls and with large straw hats pulled down over their eyes, today held up the West Unity banking company here and escaped with $1,000 loot and a revolver belonging to a bank official.

The bandits entered the bank a short time before it was opened for business, commanded four employees and a customer to lay on the floor and then scraped all the available cash into a satchel they carried.

NEAR MICHIGAN

They backed out of the bank with leveled-revolvers and fled to a waiting automobile. The latter was last seen on the main street of this village of 1,000 population and heading toward the Michigan state line, north of here.

The revolver which they took was in one of the cash drawers of the counter in the bank. It had been intended for use in event of a possible holdup but the dress of the bandits lulled banking officials out of their usual watchfulness.

WATCHMAN KILLED

COLUMBUS, June 21.—Slugged over the head while a police officer on guard at the plant left the scene for an early breakfast, Sam Miller, 71-year-old night-watchman at the Hercules Plants Co. Plant here, was fatally wounded today.

The Hercules plant has been the scene of a one-week strike, but Miller's death had no connection with the strike, police said. Seven hundred workers were scheduled to return to work in the two Hercules plants here today under a working agreement reached yesterday.

Father of Pastor's Wife Answers Call

Funeral services were held at Junction City Thursday afternoon for Simeon S. Poling, 76, father of Mrs. S. W. Hiles of Ashville, wife of Rev. Hiles, pastor of the United Brethren church there. He died at his home Tuesday, following a long illness. Besides Mrs. Hiles, Mr. Poling is survived by his widow and three sons.

TEN MILLIONS LOST AS HUGE CRUISER SINKS

1,340 Persons Including Nazis and Families Rescued From Ship

BUT 2 KNOWN DEAD

Liner Strikes Rock off Norway's Coast

OSLO, Norway, June 21.—The trans-Atlantic passenger liner Dresden which struck a rock on a "midnight sun" cruise from Germany and was beached in time to save practically all her 1,340 passengers and crew, turned on her side and sank below the waves of Karmoe sound today. A 550 foot, 13,600 ton ship costing in the neighborhood of $10,000,000, she was a total loss.

Contrary to earlier reports only two bodies, both women were in the temporary morgue of the little Norwegian fishing village of Stavanger. A third woman in a hospital there may die from her injuries suffered in the panic that resulted on deck when the ship joined against a reef.

When disaster overtook her she carried almost 1,000 passengers, members of a German Nazi organization called "Strength Through Joy."

Most of these people had never been to sea before and they left Bremen with the usual forebodings of landmen on their first long ocean voyage.

"Strength Through Joy" is distinctly a family organization and about half the passengers were women.

So great was the panic when the ship heeled sharply over after she hit the rock that some 50 of the passengers, mostly women were in Norwegian hospitals today, from injuries sustained in the rush for the life preservers and the boats.

Most of the men of the "Strength Through Joy" organization were German war veterans, heroes of the 1918 drive, but the unknown terror was too much for many of them and they fought like maniacs to get to safety. Fortunately there were no children aboard.

NEWSPAPERS CENSORED

Although all the passengers were from Germany, it was reported here today that the Berlin newspapers under orders of the Nazi censorship bureau were not carrying a line on the disaster.

The Dresden was returning toward the ocean late yesterday from a cruise up the beautiful Rysyika fjord. The holiday mood prevailed in the endless sunshine of one of the longest days in the year.

Suddenly there was a rasping phone from the stokehold to the bridge informed the captain that water was pouring in. He ordered an SOS sent over the wireless.

The vessel began to list until the

TORNADO HITS MIDDLE WEST

Squalls, Rain Relieve Drouth Sufferers; Man Killed In Wisconsin.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Rain squalls and high winds brought relief from sweltering temperatures today to this region of the drouth area.

Tornadoic winds swept across southern Wisconsin and dipped down through northeastern Illinois to sweep the Chicago area with cooling rains.

The storm lowered oppressively high temperatures that had reached an official maximum of 95 degrees here and 96 at Milwaukee. Cloudy skies were promised to-day for other sections of the drouth ridden agricultural middle west.

At Kansas City yesterday the maximum temperature was recorded at 102. Peoria, Ill., sweltered with a 100 degree heat. At Bloomington, Illinois, the temperature reached 97. Cities in Missouri baked with thermometer readings ranging from 94 to 98 degrees.

Reaching a velocity of 58 miles an hour, the wind and electrical storm that struck Wisconsin killed one man at Monroe, put electric light service and communications out of commission, uprooted trees and damaged scores of buildings.

A Burlington railroad train was derailed near La Crosse, but there were no casualties.

BABIES GAINING

CALLANDER, Ont., June 21.—The Dionne quintuplets, 24 days old today, are continuing to gain strength and vitality, their nurses reported today.

Baby Born With Fifty Fractures

Caroline Ruby Mercer, 30-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hansel Mercer of Indianapolis (shown here with the child) was born with fifty broken bones, but is improving, thanks to the wooden frame to which she was fastened and which facilitates knitting of the bones. The bones are so brittle that a doctor broke one of the child's thighs as he carefully lifted a leg for examination. What puzzles the doctors is that the child has a normal blood calcium content.

KRINN LISTS FIGURES TELLING PART OF COUNTY RELIEF TALE

Deputy Auditor Says Commissioners Not Opposed to State, Federal Relief and Are Willing to Co-operate; Petitions of Unemployed May Not Be Acted Upon.

"The county commissioners are not opposed to state and federal relief in Pickaway-co and have co-operated in every way with the State Relief commission and are willing to co-operate in the future as in the past."

This conclusion is included in a statement issued today by T. D. Krinn, deputy county auditor, who

CITY FINANCE, RATES, SMITH DITCH TOPICS

Many Relief Bills Unpaid; Meeting Planned to Discuss Outlook

WATER IS APPROVED

Action on Unhealthy Ditch Expected Soon

A gloomy outlook for the city treasury the rest of the year appeared today as council studied its financial predicament. It was found none to bright.

As a result of this reported condition a meeting has been arranged for Wednesday, June 27, with members of the council finance committee, Mayor W. B. Cady, Safety Director L. T. Shaner, Service Director William Justice and Deputy Auditor T. D. Krinn invited to attend.

A general discussion of the city's financial status will be held at that time with Mr. Cady expected to be able to enlighten the officials on what to expect during the remainder of 1934.

$600 BILLS UNPAID

Safety Director Shaner informed council that bills aggregating $600 have been presented him for burials, doctors' bills, medicine, groceries, etc., and that the Poor fund is exhausted.

Service Director Justice also reported the appropriation for incidentals for public buildings has been depleted. The matters were all referred to the finance committee upon motion.

A communication from Watson Dark, Ohio Water Service Co. executive, that his company has approved the ordinance setting rates to be paid by consumers, for hydrant rental and for sprinkler systems.

The ordinance was passed May 2 by council and was approved by President John C. Goeller and Mayor W. B. Cady. It becomes effective as of that date.

The new rates include a reduction of 10 cents in the minimum charge from $1.90 to $1.80; slash in the fire hydrant rental paid by the city from $55 each per year to $40, and a minor reduction in the sprinkler systems of several industrial plants.

AWAIT GAS ACTION

Councilman Frank Marion brought up the subject of negotiating with the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. for a new rate but President John Goeller said he thought it advisable to await the supreme court decision on the Columbus rate fight which he said would be handed down within a short time.

Mr. Marion said it was his opinion "that council should now start negotiations with the gas

SCHOOL HEAD FIGHTS BOARD

Frank Shelton, of Springfield, To Carry Ouster To High State Court.

COLUMBUS, June 21.—Frank M. Shelton, ousted Springfield, Ohio, superintendent of schools, today carried his fight for his position to the Ohio supreme court.

Counsel for Shelton who was retired as school head despite the fact that his contract does not expire until Sept. 1, 1936, filed a mandamus action in the state's highest court seeking a writ to restore Shelton to his position.

The action was filed by Attorney Homer C. Corry, of the law firm of Martin and Corry, of Springfield.

VOTE WAS 3-2

Shelton was discharged as school superintendent yesterday when the board of education voted 3 to 2 for his dismissal. He had been accused of incompetency in the discharge of his duty by Mrs. Alona H. Braun, woman member listed in the expenditures, making a grand total of $18,610.07. Although indicating that the commissioners will co-operate with the state relief commission in the future the same as in the past, Mr. Krinn indicated that this did not mean that the commissioners would turn over all county relief activity to the state.

FIRM IN STAND

The commissioners are definitely opposed to granting the administration of county outside relief to the county relief director, who works through the state. The "dads" cannot be budged from this stand.

Whether or not this refusal will cause the state to withdraw all state and federal relief funds at the end of June is not known, although Major E. O. Braught, director of the relief commission has said that "the commissioners must follow the rules and regulations of FERA and the state relief commission" to receive aid.

In the meantime, petitions were being circulated throughout the county insisting that the commissioners co-operate with the commission. Leaders of the movement expect to present the petitions to the commissioners at their meeting Monday and hope to have 5,000 signatures.

The commissioners expect to attend a meeting of the township trustees of Ohio in Columbus Monday, when poor relief will be discussed. It is not believed, therefore, that they will act on the petitions.

Sappho's Leap, so called because of the tradition that the poetess, Sappho, threw herself into the sea, is a high cliff at the end of the promontory now called Cape Duca to on the island modernly known as Leukas or Santa Maura. The cliff itself was anciently called Leukas or Leucadia.

WEST, WHITE VIE AT MANSFIELD TONIGHT

MANSFIELD, June 21.—Rattlers at the auditorium here will bulge with politically-minded spectators tonight when two arch foes of the sanguinary Democratic-national contest—Congressman Charles West and Gov. George White—put on the gloves together for the first time.

Democrats swarmed into the "capital" of the Seventeenth Congressional district in the eager expectation of witnessing a bitter exchange of invectives. Apparently they were doomed to keen disappointment for the word went the rounds that the boys in the main event will be wearing 16-ounce gloves tonight.

Unless the unexpected, always lurking just around the corner at such events as this, does happen, no blood will be spilled either by the governor or his 39-year-old opponent, who has represented his district in Congress for two terms.

CROWD EXPECTED

In fact, by far the most serious foisting of the evening was expected from the spectators themselves, elbowing one another for a "close-up" of the principals in the most historic primary election sign Ohio has been in many years.

There were a number of reasons why the first joint appearance of West and White should devolve into nothing more than a friendly sparring match, with each contestant bent more upon sizing up the other and looking for his most vulnerable spots than upon registering a telling blow.

First and foremost, it was the congressman's "coming out" party, his first campaign speech on the home lot since West's name suddenly was thrust into the Democratic senatorial contest by none other than the Roosevelt administration a week ago.

Both the governor and the congressman are what the prize ring knows as "gentleman fighters," at least they are at this early stage of the campaign. Under the circumstances, both will eschew the "rabbit punch" and confine the evening's entertainment to a little serious flag-waving.

From the shelter of the executive office in Columbus, White broadcast the statement that he would "take no shots" at West here. The congressman, likewise, was reported in a pacific frame of mind, ready to extend the usual courtesies of the home ball yard to the visiting gladiator.

EVENING PROMISING

For these political fans who find diversion in the imitation of bird calls the evening held considerable promise. Since both White and West will try to outdo the other in manifesting undiluted support of the president and his national recovery program, the cry of the "blue eagle" was expected to be a predominating strain of both their addresses.

Having started out to run for the senate on a platform built chiefly around a pledge of unalloyed support of Mr. Roosevelt, the governor has said he will not be swayed from his original course by the entry of the "New Deal's" own candidate, West.

Missing from tonight's oratorical event will be the third Democratic senatorial aspirant, former Gov. A. Vic Donahey. His message of regrets likely will be read from the "ringside" as White and West square away.

Donahey's antipathy for political rallies at which "the field" is represented is well known. When he announced his candidacy some weeks ago he summed up his attitude for this writer in these words:

"When I put on a show, especially in politics, I like to be the head man."

Two leading contenders for the Democratic gubernatorial endorsement—Lieut. Gov. Charles Sawyer and William G. Pickrel—were on the preliminary card. Martin L. Davey, the Democratic candidate for governor, was campaigning elsewhere.

WHAT OF BRUNNER

On the sidelines but not publicly swinging a towel for either West or White will be Henry G. Brunner, once Democratic state chairman and now Ohio chief of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. This is Brunner's home.

Although his name repeatedly has been linked with West's eleven-hour candidacy, Brunner, close personal and political friend of White, at least until the primary fight began, has denied he is playing favorites.

In College Fatality

Held by Washington, Pa., police, on a formal charge of murder, George H. Bartholomew, top, 48-year-old wrestling coach and physical education director at Washington and Jefferson college in the city, admitted engaging in a fight with George T. Manis, 23, bottom, female impersonator and night club actor, whose dead body was found beneath a pile of brush by farmhands. Bartholomew told police the young entertainer had attempted to blackmail him.

HIGHWAY AUTOCIDES SHOW NEED FOR GOVERNOR'S SAFETY PROGRAM

Urgent need for the safety campaign headed by Governor George White to reduce autocides on the highways of Ohio is graphically illustrated in the accompanying views of a fatal mishap in which a young man was mortally injured.

The accident occurred when the driver, believed to have fallen asleep, crashed into a culvert headwall and ditch on State Route 120 about 1 1/2 miles north of Versailles in Darke county.

The State Highway Department, in cooperation with the Highway Patrol, is collecting data on all accidents occurring on state highways outside municipalities in furtherance of Governor White's safety program to make travel safer for the motorists of the state.

THE BIG NEWS IS, THIS NEW "G-3" IS A SENSATION!

AND HERE'S WHY
HERE'S the tire that stood up under the toughest punishment a test fleet ever handed out. Brakes gave out—but the "G-3" All-Weather kept right on rolling. It kept its grip 43% longer than former All-Weathers—twice as long as other makes of tires tested against it.
That's the big news that Goodyear told in advertising—and it started a rush of buyers to our stores—and to every Goodyear dealer's straight across the country. This tire certainly has what car owners want—more miles of safety at no extra cost. Come in—see its heavier, wider, flatter tread with GRIP in the center—and see why Supertwist, Goodyear's patented ply material, provides the only body that can stand up to this mighty tread!

Primary Opens

ONE of the hottest senatorial primary fights in the history of Ohio will be officially opened at a Democratic rally to be held at Mansfield tonight.

It will be extremely interesting to watch the developments of tonight's meeting, because two men, who according to politicians, are to figure largely in the primary on the Democratic side, will sit on the same platform and launch their campaigns for votes.

And more interesting still will be a third figure who is expected to be on hand, Henry G. Brunner, former Democratic state chieftain, who had apparently dropped out of the political picture until the recent movement was started to draft Congressman Charles West to run for senator.

Governor George White and Congressman West will both make campaign speeches at tonight's meeting. Both are expected to give a 100 percent endorsement of President Roosevelt's New Deal. The Congressman will be fitted to deliver a better speech on this point as he has been touring the country during the past year debating with Senator Dickinson (R) of Iowa on this very subject.

Governor White will also, in all probability, have something to say about his futile efforts to put through a legislative program during the recent session of the General Assembly.

Lurking behind White and West, however, will be Mr. Brunner, who apparently is a friend of both and as yet has refused to divulge his choice in the senatorial race. Mr. Brunner conferred with West in Columbus last week and on or before West finally decided to run for senator.

He has also conferred with Governor White during the past few days. Of the conference, Governor White said: "Heinie Brunner is still my personal and political friend."

As to his choice for senator, Mr. Brunner would merely say: "I'm for the Home Owners Loan Corporation." He happens to head that organization in Ohio.

The mystery behind Mr. Brunner's interest in the race is not apparent to the closest political observers. He has always been known to be a friend of Governor White's, but his recent interest in White's candidacy led some to believe that he was deserting the White camp. This is not true, however, or he would not hold conferences with the governor and discuss politics.

There is a possibility that Mr. Brunner is playing the role of "peace-maker" in the fight. Possibly he doesn't wish to see the campaign get too loud and uncontrollable, which would seriously impair the party's chances at the November election.

Whatever the role may be, it must not be denied that Mr. Brunner will figure in the campaign. He has many friends and much influence. It will be interesting to watch his future movements.

Publicity doesn't "glorify" the "gangster." A loose haboon would be given equal headlines.

Watching the Nazis

A CHARGE that rifles belonging to the New York national guard had been used for drilling purposes by Nazi groups was made the other day before the special house committee investigating foreign propaganda in this country.

It was made in testimony given by Frank Mutschinski, former commander of the German Steel Helms in New York.

Such a charge, of course, is a serious one, and seems almost too preposterous to be believed.

Major General William N. Haskell, commander of the New York national guard, was prompt to state his belief that Mutschinski's statement "can not be true." He felt confident in his position because "all weapons are carefully secured for the exclusive use of the military service," and "strict regulations to that effect are in force."

This may be true, but the possibility of the regulations being violated is not to be discounted. The charge, at least, would seem to be deserving of investigation instead of being dismissed with an unsupported denial.

The Nazi movement in the United States has not assumed serious proportions, but this doesn't necessarily mean that it will not. Proper precautions need to be taken to see that no laws or military regulations are violated by those active in furthering it.

THE LONE WOLF SON

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

SYNOPSIS

Michael Lanyard—formerly known as the "Lone Wolf," an underworld celebrity, but now a respected antique dealer—sails for America on the S.S. "Navarre." Aboard ship, he meets Detective Crane, of New York, who hunted the "Lone Wolf" years ago. They talk of Lanyard's reformation, preceding his marriage and the tragic death of his wife and children while he was at war. Later, Lanyard sees a young man dart into the passageway leading to his (Michael's) cabin. He is startled and perplexed by the youth's resemblance to himself. Mrs. Fay Crozier, one of Lanyard's wealthy patrons, and her lovely daughter Fenno, are also on board. Despite Mrs. Crozier's denial that she had been negotiating for the Habsburg emeralds, Lanyard believes he has hit upon a guilty secret. He sees Crain hovering near and wonders why, because the detective claims he is no longer in government service. Fenno calls Lanyard's attention to "the handsome young man staring at him." It is the youth Lanyard is puzzled about; his name is Maurice Parry. Checking over the passenger list, Lanyard wonders why Maurice had made a hasty departure from a stateroom on A Deck when his own cabin is on C Deck. That night, Lanyard goes in search of the youth and finds him dancing with Fenno. Fay Crozier sends for Lanyard.

CHAPTER V

"I am sure madame didn't send for me to trade risqué fables and current stock quotations. Neither was it for the sake of my beaux yeux."

"What do you think, then?"

"That madame is too sensible to do me the injustice of asking me to guess."

"True—you're too clever." Madame made a brief stay on this, then a rueful mouth. "So you didn't believe me?" she inquired.

"That you hadn't been able to afford Rumbold's price? Oh, madame!"

"Well!" Fay Crozier said, with a shameless little laugh. "I couldn't tell who was listening, could I? Table stewards have been known to tell the Customs people on passengers who bragged that they meant to smuggle."

"Surely you are not thinking of trying to avoid paying the duty?"

"I don't know why not. Everybody does it. And I'm sure I've figured out a way they'll never suspect. I hope I don't shock you?"

"One's private morals are a matter of one's conscience. Neither do I think so well of myself as ever to set up for a censor. It is rather the folly I would deprecate so celebrated could be sold and the transaction kept secret."

"You can't have much opinion of my intelligence if you think I wasn't smart enough to buy through a third party." Fay Crozier with a gasp of her snowy head put the detestable but, her sunny self once more, jumped up, scurried into the adjoining room, and returned to hand over, with conscious pride, a shagreen-covered case. "You said you'd be glad to see them again."

Lanyard lifted the lid, and for a long minute sat silent, his puckered gaze constant to the seven great stones bedded in white satin, then, pinched one out, held it to the light, and replaced it.

"May I ask, madame," he said in a reluctant voice, "if you are quite sure of the good faith of your go-between?"

"What are you driving at?"

"Rumbold's, of course, is above suspicion."

"Are you trying to tell me those aren't the Habsburg emeralds?"

"I am sorry, madame—they are not even plebeian emeralds."

With a low cry the woman pounced upon the case.

"What are they, then?"

"Zircon, madame, cunningly cut and stained to counterfeit the real jewels. You may not know how clever the Germans have grown at that sort of thing, of late years, how they have learned to process

"Are you trying to tell me those aren't the Habsburg emeralds?" "I am sorry, madame—they are not even plebeian emeralds," Lanyard replied.

bold's private salesroom before I made up my mind I couldn't live without them—and told old Rumbold I simply couldn't screw the price out of my husband and he'd better sell to the first party that came along with the cash. Then I gave Connie Trenholm a check and got her to do the dirty work—you know, Lady Ashlar. But she was Connie Trenholm when she toted a spear with me in the chorus, and I'll never get accustomed to her title. We figured, you see, the Customs people back home wouldn't take any notice of the transaction because Connie's gone so British she makes Ashlar's old look like Colonials, and she's never gone home since she married and swears she never will."

"And you feel quite sure she was to be so trusted?"

"I tell you, Connie brought the stones to me with her own hands, and I examined them and knew them; and they've never been out of mine a minute since, day or night; I carried them with me wherever I went and even slept with them under my pillow—until this evening."

"Ah!"

"Why, I naturally figured nobody on board knew I had them, so it would be all right to leave them in the little safe that's built into my wardrobe trunk, with a combination lock and everything—"

"Would you care to wager a sum of money, the loser to pay it over to charity, I cannot solve the secret of that precious combination with my fingers in five minutes?"

"Oh, you perhaps, with your Lone Wolf training—"

marked. "We must be about amidst ships."

"We are."

"And you went down to dinner early?"

Fay Crozier nodded.

"As soon as the second cat sounded."

"Did you observe anyone in the passageway or on the landing who seemed to be paying you special attention?"

"Why, there were so many people about at the time—"

"I am glad," Lanyard said after another reflective wait, "it occurred to you so soon to satisfy my curiosity. I have a theory. . . I'm wrong, but I do believe, if you will give me, say till noon day after tomorrow—and lend me these zircons meantime—I do believe I can restore the emeralds to you."

"I'm sure you can, if anybody. You are simply the kindest creature!"

"I promise merely to do my best—and that only on condition you promise me to hand the emeralds over to the purser for safe-keeping—"

"But won't that mean I'll have to pay the duty?"

"Precisely, madame. Figure to yourself that since this theft proves you were known to have been the actual purchaser, the same information must have been open to informers in the pay of the American Customs—"

"Oh, have it your way," the woman cried with a tragic gesture. "I daresay you're right. I'll be good and pay up, like a little patriot."

Note For David Lehr

PARIS—A French 10-centime piece with the inscription, "David Lehr, cook. Batt. D. 7 F. A. U. S. A. 1918. 127617" is today in the possession of the Paris Legion post. It probably has passed through hundreds of thousands of hands since the one-time cook in the Seventh Field Artillery scraped his name on it.

Most frequent causes of low grade hay are, in the field, late cutting, and over-curing; in storage, browning or mold burning of hay; in baling, loss of leaves while baling brittle hay on dry days.

Erysipelas Is No Longer Common

Science Conquers This Disease Which Once Took a Heavy Toll

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

FEW ARE aware of the great advances which have been made in the treatment and prevention of infectious diseases. Shortly after the war between the states, Lord Joseph Lister, an English physician, advocated the necessity of what we now call "surgical cleanliness." His theories, although revolutionary, were fortunately accepted. They resulted in great reduction in the numbers of serious fatal infections which are commonly encountered in homes, hospitals and public institutions.

Prior to the days of Doctor Lister, and for some time after, erysipelas was a common and often fatal infection. In those days the disease was spoken of as "Saint Anthony's fire" and little hope could be offered its victims. In most instances serious and even fatal complications occurred. The dreaded disease annually took a dreadful toll of lives.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Credit Walter Hampden, renowned Shakespearean, with the presence in Hollywood of Evelyn Venable, featured player in Paramount's "Death Takes a Holiday," now playing at the Cliftona Theatre.

Arriving in Los Angeles in the spring of 1933 in Hampden's company, Miss Venable had no picture plans; in fact, no plans outside of continuing the tour and in time launching a Shakespearean company of her own. Hampden advised her to accept a contract offer from Paramount, save the money and in time finance her own repertoire of the Bard's plays.

She accepted the offer, but finished the season with Hampden. Back at Paramount last July, she was immediately cast with Dorothea Wieck in "Cradle Song," and now she has won a feature role opposite Fredric March in "Death Takes a Holiday."

Answers to Health Queries

Mother. Q.—My little girl of three has whooping cough with severe choking paroxysms. What should I do? What precautions should I take to safeguard her and to protect other children with whom she is apt to come in contact?

A.—Have your doctor advise you. The child should be kept away from other children until the disease has run its course. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

company looking to a new contract for the citizens, or the passage of an ordinance regulating the price to be charged for natural gas.

An effort to reach an agreement with the county commissioners to repair the Smith ditch, long a lively question, will be made by council after the matter was thoroughly "hashed out" in Wednesday's meeting.

A motion was made by Councilman C. O. Leist that the matter be referred to the service committee and service director who were instructed to arrange a meeting with the commissioners to discuss making it a joint project since water from beyond the corporation line flows into the ditch. Mr. Justice, service director, told council that tile in this ditch is broken in several places and that upon inspection he had found water in the sewer backed up and boiling out at a point about 40 feet south of the Stevenson land.

ENTITLED TO RELIEF
Councilman Frank Baker, chairman of the service committee, reported that all tile in the ditch are very old and were placed about six feet apart with bell ends. He declared J. I. Smith, owner of the land, is entitled to relief. He also said that Charles Stevenson would not consent to the city entering his land unless it agrees to pay him damages.

Mr. Baker and Mr. Justice believe the only way the condition can be remedied is by placing a new 36-inch tile in the ditch.

Mr. Smith appeared before council and said that citizens in the neighborhood have been putting up with the stench for years, but that they are now asking for relief.

School's Out—Let Sister Cook

Sister doesn't have to have domestic inclinations to be of great help to mother when school is out and there are lots of jobs in the kitchen that give her a chance to show ingenuity and skill.

If sister doesn't like to wash dishes, let her make the salad instead. She could become very accomplished in making frozen desserts, and her liking to serve them is sufficient reason for the job being fun. Isn't it a simple thing to follow a recipe? Let the daughters keep a supply of freshly baked cookies on hand during the vacation months to serve with fruit drinks when their friends drop in. Such an incentive makes cookie baking a lark. There are inexpensive cake recipes too, that produce very delicious results and, after all, it's the goal that keeps us pepped up to the performance of a task.

Here are some recipes for foods the whole family will enjoy, whether sister makes them, or mother herself!

Peanut Drop Cookies

2 Tbsp. butter 1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 C. sugar 1/2 C. flour
1 egg, well beaten 2 tsp. milk
1 tsp. baking powder 1/2 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 C. peanuts, finely chopped

Cream butter, add sugar and egg. Mix and sift baking powder, salt and flour. Add dry ingredients to first mixture; then add milk, peanuts and lemon juice. Drop from teaspoon on a buttered cookie sheet, one inch apart, and place half a peanut on top of each. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes in a moderate oven of 325 degrees.

Frozen Fruit Salad

2 slices canned pineapple, diced
1 orange, diced
1 banana
1/4 C. maraschino cherries
1 C. sweetened, whipped cream

Moisten the fruit with the mayonnaise. Fold in the sweetened whipped cream. Freeze in the trays of an automatic refrigerator for three hours. Serve in slices on lettuce, garnishing each slice with a spoonful of mayonnaise and a cherry.

Chocolate Ginger Cream

For a beverage or dessert, Chocolate Ginger Cream can be served with or without cookies as a refreshing summertime treat. Pour into each glass:

2 Tbsp. chocolate sauce
1 Tbsp. cream or evaporated milk

Mix the cream and sauce thoroughly. Add chipped ice or cubes. Gently pour down the sides of the glass enough ginger ale to fill it. This makes a delicious soda when a spoonful of ice cream is added.

Beginner's Economy Cake

1/2 C. shortening 1 tsp. salt
1 C. sugar 1 C. milk
1 egg 1 tsp. vanilla
2 C. sifted flour 4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 C. cocoamalt or a chocolate-malted mixture

Put shortening into mixing bowl and stir until creamy. Add sugar gradually and work until smooth. Add whole egg and beat with creamed shortening and sugar until well blended. Sift the dry ingredients together (flour, baking powder, salt and cocoamalt) in a large bowl. Then, alternately add these dry ingredients, the milk and the flavoring to the shortening, sugar and egg that have been previously combined. Beat well. Bake in two round 9-inch cake pans, which have been lined with waxed paper, in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 minutes.

Mrs. Braun, it was said here, was a member of the majority bloc on the board of education. In a meeting yesterday, attended by more than 150 spectators, the school board, by the slim margin, passed a resolution dismissing Shelton.

As the state supreme court is now in summer recess and not scheduled to reconvene until the middle of September, the Shelton case cannot be decided until next Fall.

NEVER IN MEETING

In support of his mandamus proceedings, Shelton's counsel contended that the Springfield school board never really met as a board of education to consider charges preferred against the ousted superintendent. The majority met as a bloc, it was charged.

Shelton accused the majority of bloc which favored his ouster of "acting dishonestly and abusing the power vested in them."

Trophies in Greece

In ancient Greece, a trophy was a memorial of victory erected on the spot where the enemy had turned in flight. Often one or two shields, and helmets of the routed enemy, placed upon the trunk of a tree, served as the sign and memorial of victory. After a sea-fight the trophy consisted of the beaks and stern-ornaments of captured vessels, set up on the nearest coast.

SIT DOWN NOW AND PREPARE YOUR ENTRY — IT'LL ONLY TAKE A FEW MINUTES— YOU HAVE AN OPPORTUNITY TO WIN A PORTION OF THE PRIZE MONEY - CONTEST CLOSES SATURDAY AT 4 P. M.

$15.00 IN PRIZES For Your Favorite Hot Weather Menu

Every woman has her "prize" or "pet" menu and recipe, and a large number of the city's firms, through the Herald, are giving each one of you an opportunity to cash in on your culinary knowledge by sponsoring a Hot Weather Menu Contest.

Under the plan devised there will be five classifications, namely, Dinner Menus, Sunday Supper Menus, Luncheon Menus, Summer Party Menus, and Picnic Menus.

RULES FOR THE HOT WEATHER MENU CONTEST.

1. All entries must contain a menu suitable for the summer months and include a recipe for some dish listed in the menu. Also state for which one of the five classifications your entry is intended.
2. All entries must be submitted on white paper. Write on one side only.
3. Neatness will not be a deciding factor in the judging, but be as neat as possible with your reply. Write plainly.
4. All entries must be in the hands of the Hot Weather Menu Contest Editor by 4 P. M., Saturday, June 23, 1934.
5. The decision of the judges will be final.
6. This contest is open to everyone except employees of this newspaper and their families.

Here's all you have to do: Compose your favorite menu in one of the above classes that you prefer; then give a recipe for preparing one of the dishes in your menu. For example, you choose the "dinner menu" for your class, and submit the menu which contains Molded Pineapple Salad. You have a good recipe for this salad so you outline the ingredients and the manner in which they are prepared as the second part of your answer. (You may choose any dish from your menu for which you desire to give a recipe).

There will be a total of $15 given for the prize winning menus and recipes; five first prizes of $1.50 each; five second prizes of $1 each; and five third prizes of 50c each.

Read the rules carefully, be sure you know what is expected in your answer, then get busy.

Competent judges, selected by this newspaper, will judge all entries and their decisions will be final. The Herald will not enter into any correspondence relative to the contest.

◆ THERE ARE NO "STRINGS" TO THIS CONTEST— NOTHING TO BUY —NOTHING TO SELL—JUST SEND IN YOUR BEST MENU AND RECIPE—BUT DO IT NOW! ◆

Golfers Beaten By 28-23 Score

Pickaway Country club golfers lost an interesting match Wednesday afternoon to the invading Washington C. H. team by a 28-23 score. A return match will be played in the Fayette-co city at a date to be announced later.

Few low scores were turned in with a high wind playing an important part in the going. A splendid 77 on rounds of 39-38 gave John Browning, of the Washington team, the day's low medal score. He took three points from Paul Adkins.

Jim Evans' 80 was low for the localities with Lent Hansen registering an 81. Both men won two and one-half points.

The scores were:

A Falling Star

A falling star is a meteor. If it actually reaches the earth it is known as a meteorite. Meteors are tiny masses which under certain circumstances of motion and position dash into the earth's atmosphere at a speed of from 10 to 40 miles per second. The heat generated by the friction with the upper air usually completely vaporizes or burns them.

Traynor Becomes Pirate Manager

Another ball club decided to swap managers in the middle of the pennant stream, when the Pittsburgh Pirates tried to end a long losing streak by supplanting George Gibson with Harold "Pie" Traynor, veteran third baseman, to add another field playing manager in the major leagues. Here are shown Pie Traynor in uniform being congratulated by ex-Manager Gibson, right, while Club President William E. Benswanger, center, says "hello" to the cameraman.

GOWDY WILL RAISE RED BIRD PENNANT

COLUMBUS, June 21.—Harry "Hank" Gowdy, Columbus' outstanding contribution to the professional baseball world will be the central figure at the Red Bird stadium next Tuesday night when the 1933 American Association pennant is raised. Gowdy has accepted the invitation of President George M. Trautman to return to his home town to participate in pennant raising festivities which are expected to attract notables of the sports world from every corner of the country.

Gowdy was selected because in 1907 when the Columbus team won its last A. A. championship it was his hand that drew the pennant up the flag pole at old Neil Park.

At that time, Gowdy was a scoreboard boy with a long and brilliant professional baseball career ahead of him. In 1908 Gowdy donned his first uniform and played 98 games with Lancaster in the Ohio State League. Since his first year he has seen service with Dallas, the New York Giants, the Boston Braves, Buffalo, Columbus, Minneapolis and Rochester. He is now with the Braves as coach.

There is a notable gap in Gowdy's all time record that appears in National League statistics under the significant head "1918—U. S. Army." Gowdy was the first major league baseball player to enlist. He returned to the Boston Braves in 1919 and was traded to the New York Giants in 1923 when the McGraw clan was in need of assistance. He participated in the World Series of 1923 and 1924 with New York. His experience in the American Association and the International League followed, but in 1929 he returned to the Braves as Coach.

The highlight of Gowdy's career was in 1914 when the Boston Braves suddenly spurred in August to win the National League Pennant. Hank went into the World Series that year, caught all four games and batted .545. His average in the three series in which he participated was .395.

Pennant ceremonies for Tuesday night are scheduled for 7:45 prior to the Minneapolis-Columbus game at 8:30 p. m. Co-incidental with the pennant ceremonies will be the presentation of the Thomas J. Hickey attendance cup. Columbus won this cup this year for the first time by turning out the largest opening day throng in the A. A.

GIVEN OUTFIT WINS SECOND; DAIRY LOSES

Team Scores Three in Seventh To Clinch Game; Louie Hill Hits.

The Given Oil Co. won its second straight game in the league, Wednesday, turning back the Circle City dairy entry by a 6-4 score. The game was slow compared to the championship game the night before between the Container Corporation and the Mecca.

The colored team tallied three runs in the second inning on two bases on balls and three hits, Davis, Henry and Hoston crossing the plate. The Circle City boys scored three to tie the count in the third session. Three consecutive errors, a walk and Eldridge's hit scored Fowler, Mancin, and Garner for the dairymen.

The score remained a tie until the sixth when an error permitted Eldridge to get on base then Thompson's double plated him.

The Given clinched the affair in their half of the seventh on an error on B. Jones' hit, a triple by Louie Hill, a single by D. Johnson and an error on Maynard Johnson's ball.

Bob Jones gave only five hits while Leasure was touched for seven. Jones fanned five and walked one, and Leasure fanned four and walked six.

Tonight the first half of the league season ends with the Eschelman Feeds and Purina Chows tangling for the grain championship.

Twice as Cold as Zero
The weather bureau says that the expression "twice as cold as zero" has no physical meaning because we have no zero of cold, or place from which to count cold. We only count heat. The question is much like— a man has only $100 to his name; how much would he have if he were twice as poor? There is no answer, because we count in riches, not in poverty. We know what he would have if half as rich, but "twice as poor" has no meaning. When we say "twice as cold" we probably refer to a rough estimate of our discomfort and not to the reading of a thermometer.

Stein and daughter, Lillian Jean, and son, Richard Arlen, of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Valentine and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Rife.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hampp and family, Miss Minnie Kathryn and Guy Courtright spent Sunday at Buckeye Lake.

Records of the ancient American town of Plymouth, Mass., show that in Puritan days it was illegal to smoke on Sundays within two miles of a meeting house, or while going to or from meeting house services. The penalty was a 12 pence fine per puff.

Go West— This Summer... Visit the Yellowstone Park and Colorado

You'll See These Interesting Points on the Herald Tour

SENSATIONAL CODY ROAD

One of the eye astonishments on the Yellowstone-Colorado tour for Herald readers is the 90-mile Cody Highway through the Rockies from Yellowstone Park to Cody, Wyo. It will be traversed August 12.

SURE TO SEE IT

See the Weird
Mysteries of Yellowstone
National Park

Nature's greatest
"World's Fair" of all time. And on the same trip—majestic Salt Lake
City, the Royal Gorge,
Pike's Peak, Colorado Springs, Denver and the Colorado Rockies.

True to its reputation, Old Faithful geyser will not fail vacation sight-seers in The Herald's Vacation Tour of the West in August. Every Yellowstone visitor is sure to see Old Faithful for it erupts regularly every hour to a height of 150 feet. Other geysers and many hot springs will be viewed.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

backed unanimously by the House Interstate Commerce Committee. But some of the big Jewish financiers in New York have raised the anti-Semitism bogey. They say no Jew should be a commissioner.

These same Jewish financiers took the lead in the boycott against Hitler. The real reason they oppose Cohen is that they know him to be in favor of curbing Wall Street.

Congressional Merry-Go-Round

The closing hours of the Senate were hot, hectic and heterogeneous. At one of the climactic moments, here was the picture...

Audience - 40 Senators. The Auditor - few. Majority of Senators not in chamber. Majority of those in chamber busy with things other than listening.

Huey Long pulls the ear of Burton Wheeler. Heedless, reads newspaper. Black (in white) saunters about the room. Metcalf of Rhode Island talks with Fess of Ohio. Blind Gore snaps his fingers for a boy to lead him out of the Chamber. Mrs. Caraway eats peanuts. Byrd of Virginia returns from lunch, sees lovely Mrs. Greenway (visiting from the House) goes to chat with her on the visitor's lounge.

Long, ever alive to competition, joins Byrd beside the lady from Arizona. Soon he has her to himself. Senator Wagner still speaking. George of Georgia talks with Harrison of Mississippi. Metcalf and Fess walk out. Johnson writing a letter. Hastings and Hale confer - not in whispers. McGill of Kansas asks the Chair to ask for order.

The Chair (J. Ham Lewis, pro tem.) in classical language begs that the galleries cease their commotion. Walsh suggests the same admonition be given the members of the Senate. The Chair follows this advice.

The Senator from New York may resume. The Senator from New York resumes, concludes; the Senator from Massachusetts takes the floor presently, saying: "I wish the Senator from New York were here," but the Senator from New York has gone for refreshment. They all go out for refreshment.

LEE CIRCUS HERE FRIDAY

Motor Caravan Transports 3-Ring Show; Parade Scheduled At Noon.

Tomorrow will be circus day in Circleville. LEE BROS. three ring wild animal circus arrives here early in the morning and will pitch its tents on the show grounds on Mason's lot on N. Court-st for afternoon and evening performances.

The enormous motor caravan is something of a novelty in itself with its fifty large transports, smaller trucks, motorized sleeping coaches, cars, etc. Some of the transports are so large that it is impossible to turn them at an ordinary highway or street intersection, and for that reason the show must be routed over main thoroughfares with wide angle turns.

The tented city requires a five acre lot and is complete in every respect.

What a difference from the days of the Yankee Robinson, Robbins Bros. and Ringling wagon circuses, when these showmen blazed a trail across the country hauling creaking wagons from town to town with six and eight horse teams and with occasional aid from the elephants. The old timers recall those early days of the tented shows and find some similarity between the past and the new day.

LEE BROS. management reiterates their claim to presenting as high class circus performance as can possibly be assembled. They further state that the report of the exceptional merit of their performance seems to precede the circus itself into each of their stands with the result their business has been far beyond expectations.

Special reduced prices of the LEE BROS. Circus have made that circus an extraordinary bargain counter of amusement and the public realizes it.

Don't miss the big free street parade at noon.

Secretary Bird Kills Snakes

Snake flesh is a favorite article of diet of the secretary bird, of South and East Africa, which is very fearless in attacking even the more venomous varieties of reptiles. The bird, which stands some four feet high, stamps the life out of its victims with its powerful legs and feet. Its wings are thought to act as shields from the snake's poison fangs although the bird is remarkably agile in keeping out of the way of these.

Fly's Eyesight

The greater part of the fly's head is made up of two remarkable eyes, each composed of thousands of facets, so that it is enabled to see in nearly all directions. Besides these there are three small single or simple eyes, placed at the top of the head between the two large compound eyes.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THE young folks ain't quite as respectful to their parents now as they were when we were young folks. Anyhow, that's what almost everybody over forty is saying.

I got an idea that maybe the youngsters are just as respectful, or else they ain't got so much to be respectful about as we had.

There was a girl that was dining with the family one day, and all of a sudden she pipes up. "Say, Dad and Mama, I got some news with a thrill in it for you! I'm married!"

The old folks just kinda stared.

"Yes, sure enough! I been married a week, only I ain't told anybody except my husband, and he's a dear!"

Her dad had got his dignity by that time. He says, "Lola, we'll talk about this later. It won't do to discuss such things before the butler."

"Well," says Lola, "I got a different idea. I want the butler to be right in on the talk."

"Why, Lola! says Mama, "where are your manners? Don't you know any better than that? You know we've always tried to teach you some sense. No more talk about this before the butler, see? He must think you're very ill-bred already."

"None," says Lola. "He don't think nothing of the sort, and he's already told me he thinks I'm the snake's gaiters! And he's got to be in on the discussion, because he's my husband!"

MAKES YOU LOSE UNHEALTHY FAT

A young woman of Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. It was a great help. I was hard to sleep days and nights. I am taking Kruschen I sleep better, eat as usual and lose fat, too. To take off fat-Lose one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast-one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but little-get it at any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and HARMLESS way to lose fat-your money gladly returned. Don't accept anything but Kruschen if you want to reduce safely."

THREE ENTERTAIN FOR RECENT BRIDE WEDNESDAY

Miss Maxine Acord, Miss Alice Scythorn and Miss Nelle Oesterle, of Ashville, entertained at the former's home in Ashville, Wednesday evening, with a bridge party and miscellaneous shower complimenting Mrs. Earl K. Drum the former Elizabeth Hay of Ashville, whose marriage was recently announced.

Rainbow colors were carried out in the decorations throughout the home. A profusion of colorful flowers in large baskets were placed to advantage in the rooms where the guests were assembled.

A rainbow made of crepe paper with the pot of gold at the end containing the gifts was the clever idea carried out in the shower.

Mrs. William Baker, of Groveport, and Mrs. Drum were winners of prizes in the bridge game.

Guests included Mrs. William Baker, of Groveport; Miss Louise Carpenter of Orient; Mrs. J. A. Drum, Miss Mary Francis Boone of Columbus; Mrs. Martin Cromley, Miss Francis Weiser, Miss Esther Mae Petty, Miss Elizabeth Cromley, Miss Ruth Allison, Mrs. E. B. Hay, Miss Elizabeth Plum, Miss Helen Bowers, Mrs. Calvin Scythorn, Miss Lillian Kaiserman, Mrs. T. R. Acord, Miss Leota Rife, Mrs. Oscar Ward Jr., Mrs. William Fisher Jr., and Mrs. Drum.

TWO RETURN AFTER ATTENDING WEDDING

Mrs. Alice Hosler and Miss Alice Ada May, N. Scioto-st., returned Thursday morning from Detroit, Mich., where they visited Earl Warner and family.

Monday they attended the wedding of Mr. Warner's oldest daughter, Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Warner, and Mr. Sampson James Smith.

The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the bride's home in the presence of the immediate families.

The bride wore a white voile gown trimmed in rare old valence lace, which was worn by her mother at her coming out party.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Deluth, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Warner, E. Main-st., grandparents of the bride, also attended the wedding and remained in Detroit for a visit with their son.

LOCAL PERSONS ATTEND PARTY IN COLUMBUS

Mr. and Mrs. Ferd M. Pickens, of Upper Arlington, former residents of this city, entertained a group of Circleville friends at a delightful party at their home, Wednesday evening.

Swimming and bridge were diversions of the enjoyable hours. Mrs. Ralph Wallace and Miss Thelma O'Hara were prize winners in the card game. A delicious lunch was served during the evening.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bishop Given, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wallace, Miss Katherine Firsich, Miss Ethel Kirchofer, Miss Thelma O'Hara, Mack Mader and Joseph Rooney, this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Myers, of Columbus, formerly of this city.

A pageant, "The Helping Hands," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Cliff Miller. Mrs. Cora Rader Hood will have charge of the program for the primary department. Friends of the congregation are cordially invited.

All-Around Girl

Miss Kathryn Hill.

Miss Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hill of Orient, was graduated from Capital University, Tuesday, June 12, with a Bachelor of School Music Degree.

Miss Hill was prominent on the Capital campus being a member of the famous Chapel Choir, under the direction of Prof. Ellis Snyder.

When the choir made its ten-day concert tour through northern Ohio and Michigan last August, she was also a member of the Kappa Sigma Theta Sorority, the Masquer's Dramatic Club, and a very active member of the Women's Athletic Association, and also served on the Women's Board of Activities. Last January she was awarded the Varsity "C" and at graduation the college presented her with the second athletic pin to be awarded from the school, Miss Mary Roess, a Pennsylvania girl, being honored last year.

Besides her music major Miss Hill also has a major in English. Beside her picture the Senior Annual at Capital this year reads: "Musical, athletic, studious—an all-around girl."

Wales Is 40—No Bride Yet!

Whether life really begins at 40 is a fact that his royal highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, will be able to determine after June 23, when the heir to the British throne reaches the two-score milestone in his life. As yet unmarried, the prince is still the most eligible bachelor on the continent.

LOCAL PERSONS ATTEND STATE D. U. V. CONVENTION

Mrs. E. L. Tolbert, president of the local tent Daughters of the Union Veterans, and Mrs. G. M. Newton have been attending the state D. U. V. convention held from Sunday through Thursday at the Desher Wallick Hotel, Columbus.

Wednesday a group of six members of the local tent attended the sessions held in the Hall of Mirrors. Included in the group were Mrs. Frank Webbe, Mrs. Irene Jenkins, Mrs. L. E. Miller, Mrs. James Carpenter, Miss Ada Hammett and Mrs. James Trimmer.

Mrs. Gill Montgomery, of Newark, is state president of the organization and presided at all the meetings.

NEBRASKA GRANGE HAS DEGREE WORK WEDNESDAY

Approximately one hundred members were present for the conferring of the third and fourth degree on a class of candidates of the Nebraska Grange, Wednesday evening, at the Walnut-twp school.

Miss Betty Scythorn, Ralph Dunkle and Weldon Brown were candidates. The work was given by the Logan Elm grange degree team with Mrs. Mae McCullough as captain; Miss Ruth McKenzie as pianist, and Mrs. Cliff Miller as soloist.

After the meeting Mrs. E. O. Atkins invited the members and guests to the dining room where tempting refreshments were served.

MR. AND MRS. LISTON ENTERTAIN AT BRIDGE

TEN MILLIONS

decks were at an angle that made walking difficult. Pandemonium reigned. With the shore of Karmoe island right before their eyes more than 100 of the passengers donned lifebelts and jumped into the water 30 feet below.

The Dresden had slid off the rock which had sheared a long hole in its side and was making for the shallow water off shore. But the water was dampening her fires and the ship was sinking fast so Captain William Petermoeller ordered the life boats lowered.

BOATS CAPSIZED

The first lifeboat was still suspended about 20 feet above the water filled with women when the ship gave another lurch and the boat capsized in midair. All those in the boat were thrown into the water.

Fortunately the Dresden's SOS had been answered by the nearby steamer King Harold and sailors from the latter ship managed to rescue most of them.

So great was the list of the ship that only the stern lifeboat on one side could be lowered. Unfortunately this one struck a propeller of the multi-screw ship which by this time was well out of the water. This boat also capsized and the same scene of women who could not swim clinging to others who could was repeated. Here again although the sea was choppy, most of the passengers were rescued.

Launching of other lifeboats was suspended as it was evident that the vessel soon would be beached in a few minutes the Dresden struck again, this jolt a welcome one. The remaining passengers were transferred to shore by the fishing craft which clustered about, difficulty being experienced only with the many wounded.

PLANES PLAN MASS FLIGHT TO ALASKA

WASHINGTON, June 21.—A mass flight of 10 or 12 of the army's secret Martin bombing airplanes to Alaska will be made in the near future.

The purpose of the flight is to test the wartime efficiency of the powerful bombing planes and also make a good-will visit to Canada enroute.

The state department today started to make arrangements with the Canadian government for the flight of the flying armada over Canadian territory.

The goldfinches are among the latest of our native birds to build their nests, usually delaying this activity until August. It has been suggested that the reason for this is that these birds like to line their nests with a thick layer of thistle-down and this is not available earlier.

Secretary Wallace Puts "Spotlight" on A. A. A. Night Shift Workers

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has followed up the disclosures of the AAA Merry-Go-Round by placing three investigators on his AAA night shift. Their job is to check inefficient employees, report on workers going to sleep, and count the number of trips to adjacent beer emporiums. Several workers have been hauled up for this, the record of their work laid before their Congressmen.

There have been some dismissals, plus some close squeaks. Also there is talk of closing down the night shift of the AAA altogether because of extravagance and inefficiency. Note—AAA workers say they now have the three investigators spotted and aren't worried about them unless new ones are sent in unexpectedly.

Unfinished Business

Combat

If they are not careful, the two cabinet members of the Roosevelt Cabinet are headed for a scrap. The two cabinet members in question are Henry Wallace and Harold Ickes, and the difference that has come between them is the Forest Service.

Both the Interior and Agricultural Departments want to regulate the Nation's forests. At present they are under Wallace's Agriculture Department. But the National Parks Service of Ickes' Interior Department claims that the forests are chiefly in the National Parks, and that present duplication of effort should be eliminated by transferring them to Interior.

The staffs of the two Departments are having it hot and heavy. Agriculture is sore at Interior over the administration of the new grazing bill, claims that the big grazers are being given the break over the little fellow.

Agricultural experts also claim that soil erosion properly comes under its jurisdiction, is not being properly handled by Interior. They also cast covetous eyes at subsistence homesteads, say that this should be under their jurisdiction, since most of the population to be transferred is in farm areas.

So far only the underboys have been doing the rowing. But they have been egging Ickes and Wallace into the lists. Trouble is these two men are the best of friends, share the same progressive ideals, not long ago took a brief vacation together. It is hard to start them fighting.

Once mild-mannered Henry Wallace, urged by his subordinates to stand up against Ickes regarding the Forest Service, came back and reported: "Well, I tried to talk to him about it, but I saw we weren't getting anywhere, so I just shut up."

Note—It looks as if the President would transfer the Forest Service to the Interior Department despite Agricultural protests.

Wall Street Drive

Pressure on the President for appointments on the Stock Market Commission is becoming more intense. Wall Street is now angling almost as much for the technical jobs on the Commission's staff as for jobs as Commissioners.

One report from the Street is that a pool has been raised to finance an expert who will get a job as a technician on the Commission and be the inside tip-off man for New York. This would give Wall Street all it wants to know about what transpires on the inside.

As to the five Commissioners, Roosevelt must appoint two Republicans and three Democrats. Jim Landis, an author of the bill, is sure to be chairman.

CLUES IN TUFVERSON MYSTERY SEEN IN U.S.

Believe Missing Attorney Was in Philadelphia; Hunt Turns There

PODERJAY GRILLED

Negro Maid Provides Possible Angle

By International News Service
The international search for Agnes C. Tufverson, missing New York woman attorney, turned from Europe back to the United States today.

Philadelphia police were drawn into the baffling case when it was disclosed that the missing woman probably visited that city just before she vanished on the eve of a scheduled European honeymoon with Captain Ivan Poderjay, international adventurer.

Poderjay, held by police, at Vienna, Austria, on a charge of bigamy, was being grilled almost continuously in an effort to throw some light on the case. His second bride also is being detained in the foreign country.

SMALL CLUE PROBED
Meanwhile, New York police studied a new but small clue in the strange case. Detectives questioning the missing woman's negro maid learned that on the night of December 20 Poderjay told the negro not to report for duty the next day. When the maid returned a day later, she found only Poderjay at the apartment.

Baffled in their efforts to determine what became of the brilliant corporation lawyer, New York authorities then turned their attention to methods by which her body may have been disposed of in the event that she was slain.

There was a possibility that the woman was still alive but it was generally believed she was dead because she had not responded to the hue and cry raised since her disappearance.

Police of Philadelphia, it was reported, were seeking a business man there with whom Miss Tufverson is believed to have conferred concerning some bank stock she owned. There was a possibility, police said, that Miss Tufverson had cashed the bank stock for funds for the honeymoon trip with her globe-trotting, adventuring husband.

In New York, Assistant District Attorney James T. Neary said he unearthed evidence indicating that Miss Tufverson and her bridegroom went to Philadelphia on December 15 or 16. It was believed that the Philadelphia business man might be able to shed some light on the case.

ALIVE DECEMBER 20

Miss Tufverson was last seen alive on December 20. Olaf Tufverson, father of the missing woman, when interviewed in his Grand Rapids, Mich., home, tersely said that he firmly believes that his daughter is dead.

"I have known my daughter was dead since January," the old man said, "I know it here," and he placed his hand over his heart.

He said he had last heard from her at Christmas time last year. Miss Tufverson was his favorite daughter, other member of his family said.

ELECTION BOARD LETS CONTRACTS FOR ITS BALLOTS

The board of elections at its meeting Wednesday awarded contracts for the printing of ballots for the August primary of Fitzpatrick's Printery, this city, and tally sheets and poll books to the Columbus Blank Book Manufacturing Co.

The bid on the ballots was $29.75 and for the sheets and poll books, $508.20.

Petitions of candidates were also approved by the board. None were rejected, M. B. Trout, clerk, announced.

Solution of Five Crimes Wins Praise

Ashville Writer Pays Tribute To County, Village Enforcement Officers.

EDITOR'S NOTE:
Following is a letter received Thursday from an Ashville resident concerning the arrest of three men for a crime series in the Harrison-twp town.

"Ashville people breathed a sigh of relief Wednesday upon receipt of the news by phone and later verified by the complete details published in the county's wide-awake daily, The Circleville Herald, of the rounding up of the gang of petty thieves and hold-up artists who have been working overtime in the village.

"In the past several months robberies have been committed at five different places, as follows: Grove and Rhodes, Stanley Beckett, Morris Hardware store, Leon Taylor's automobile, and last the holdup of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrison and Miss Frances Gerhart, who were taken for a 'ride' several miles in the country and relieved of about $350 in cash and checks.

BELIEVED SAME MEN
"These different jobs bore similar earmarks and the consensus of opinion has always been that they were at least planned, and possibly executed, by the same parties. These deductions have proven true.

"To Sheriff Radcliff and his efficient force, assisted by Marshal Weber and Constable Scott, is given the credit for cleaning up all these cases. The officials have

NEW COUNTY AGENT NAMED

Floyd Delashmunt, of Mansfield, Hired; Has Not Yet Accepted Job.

Floyd Delashmunt, prominent Richland-co agriculturalist, was employed to succeed Guy Dowdy, resigned, as county agricultural agent at a meeting of the Pickaway-co extension committee Wednesday evening.

Mr. Delashmunt had not announced his acceptance of the appointment at noon today.

Mr. Dowdy resigned the position to accept a post with the Agriculture Adjustment Administration at Columbus.

Having been engaged in county extension work in Richland-co for 12 years, Mr. Delashmunt was highly recommended to the committee which appointed him.

At present he is located at Mansfield and is handling the corn, wheat and hog reduction programs for Richland-co.

The Pickaway-co extension committee is composed of Clinton Teegardin, T. M. Glick, John Boggs, John Bell, and Mary Shortridge.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Mrs. Raymond Rader, N. Scioto-st., underwent a major operation at the hospital Wednesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, Circleville R. F. D. 2, who has been in the hospital recovering from a minor operation, was discharged and returned to her home Thursday.

Mrs. Alva Courtwright, of Ashville, underwent a tonsil operation at Berger hospital, Thursday. Dr. C. G. Stewart performed the operation.

DEMAND HUBBELL'S NAME BE STRICKEN FROM OHIO CONTEST

COLUMBUS, June 21.—Demand upon the secretary of state that the name of Charles Hubbell, Cleveland, be expunged from the list of Democratic candidates for governor was made today by Attorney E. S. Johnson, Kent, who charged irregularities existed in Hubbell's nominating petitions.

Hubbell filed approximately 1,500 signatures from 60 counties. The minimum requirement was 1,000 from 30 counties. Secretary of State George S. Myers promised an investigation of Johnson's charges.

Held With Poderjay

Here is a Viennese police Bertillon picture of Mme. Suzanne Ferrand sent by airplane to London and radioed to New York city, in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Agnes Tufverson, wealthy New York lawyer, wife of self-styled Captain Ivan Poderjay, now held in Vienna. Mme. Ferrand, said by police, to be married to Poderjay, was questioned concerning jewelry and clothing in her possession belonging to the missing woman.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. LANG, 49

Daughter of Late W. E. Caskey Succumbs in Lexington, Ky., Hospital.

Mrs. W. E. Lang, 49, daughter of the late W. E. Caskey, died Wednesday night in a hospital at Lexington, Ky. She underwent an appendicitis operation a week ago.

Mrs. W. E. Caskey, step-mother of the deceased, went to Lexington Monday and was at the bedside when death came.

The funeral will be conducted in Lexington Friday with additional services at the chapel in Forest cemetery Saturday at 2 p. m.

Besides her step-mother, Mrs. Lang is survived by her husband, two daughters, and her brother, W. E. Caskey, Jr.

FOUR BANDITS ROB OHIO BANK

Men Dressed in Farmers' Overalls Get $1,000 at West Unity, North Ohio.

Bandits, dressed in farmers' overalls and with large straw hats pulled down over their eyes, today held up the West Unity banking company here and escaped with $1,000 loot and a revolver belonging to a bank official.

The bandits entered the bank a short time before it was opened for business, commanded four employees and a customer to lay on the floor and then scamped all the available cash into a satchel they carried.

NEAR MICHIGAN
They backed out of the bank with leveled revolvers and fled to a waiting automobile. The latter was last seen on the main street of this village of 1,000 population and heading toward the Michigan state line north of here.

The revolver which they took was in one of the cash drawers of the counter in the bank. It had been intended for use in event of a possible holdup but the dress of the bandits lulled banking officials out of their usual watchfulness.

WATCHMAN KILLED

COLUMBUS, June 21.—Slugged over the head while a police officer on guard at the plant left the scene for an early breakfast, Sam Miller, 71-year-old night-watchman at the Hercules Plant Co. plant here, was fatally wounded today.

The Hercules plant has been the scene of a one-week strike, but Miller's death had no connection with the strike, police said. Seven hundred workers were scheduled to return to work in the two Hercules plants here today under a working agreement reached yesterday.

Father of Pastor's Wife Answers Call

Funeral services were held at Junction City Thursday afternoon for Simeon S. Poling, 76, father of Mrs. S. W. Hiles of Ashville, wife of Rev. Hiles, pastor of the United Brethren church there. He died at his home Tuesday, following a long illness.

Besides Mrs. Hiles, Mr. Poling is survived by his widow and three sons.

TEN MILLIONS LOST AS HUGE CRUISER SINKS

1,340 Persons Including Nazis and Families Rescued From Ship

BUT 2 KNOWN DEAD

Liner Strikes Rock off Norway's Coast

OSLO, Norway, June 21.—The trans-Atlantic passenger liner Dresden which struck a rock on a "midnight sun" cruise from Germany and was beached in time to save practically all her 1,340 passengers and crew, turned on her side and sank below the waves of Karmoe sound today. A 550 foot, 13,600 ton ship costing in the neighborhood of $10,000,000, she was a total loss.

Contrary to earlier reports only two bodies, both women were in the temporary morgue of the little Norwegian fishing village of Stavanger. A third woman in a hospital there may die from her injuries suffered in the panic that resulted on deck when the ship jolted against a reef.

When disaster overtook her she carried almost 1,000 passengers, members of a German Nazi organization called "Strength Through Joy."

Most of these people had never been to sea and they left Bremen with the usual forebodings of landsmen on their first long ocean voyage.

"Strength Through Joy" is distinctly a family organization and about half the passengers were women.

So great was the panic when the ship heeled sharply over, after she hit the rock that some 50 of the passengers, mostly women were in Norwegian hospitals today, from injuries sustained in the rush for the life preservers and the boats.

Most of the men of the "Strength Through Joy" organization were German war veterans, heroes of the 1918 drive, but the unknown terror was too much for many of them and they fought like maniacs to get to safety. Fortunately there were no children aboard.

NEWSPAPERS CENSORED

Although all the passengers were from Germany, it was reported here today that the Berlin newspapers under orders of the Nazi censorship bureau were not carrying a line on the disaster.

The Dresden was returning toward the ocean late yesterday from a cruise up the beautiful Rysyska fjord. The holiday mood prevailed in the endless sunshine of one of the longest days in the year.

Suddenly there was a rasping jolt that threw many of the passengers off their feet. The telephone from the stokehold to the bridge informed the captain that water was pouring in. He ordered an SOS sent over the wireless.

The vessel began to list until the

TORNADO HITS MIDDLE WEST

Squalls, Rain Relieve Drouth Sufferers; Man Killed in Wisconsin.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Rain squalls and high winds brought relief from sweltering temperatures today to this region of the drouth area.

Tornado winds swept across southern Wisconsin and dipped down through northeastern Illinois to sweep the Chicago area with cooling rains.

The storm lowered oppressively high temperatures that had reached an official maximum of 95 degrees here and 96 at Milwaukee.

Cloudy skies were promised to drouth ridden agricultural middle west. At Kansas City yesterday the maximum temperature was recorded at 102. Peoria, Ill., sweltered with a 100 degree heat. At Bloomington, Illinois, the temperature reached 97. Cities in Missouri baked with thermometer readings ranging from 91 to 98 degrees.

Reaching a velocity of 58 miles an hour, the wind and electrical storm that struck Wisconsin killed one man at Monroe, put electric light service and communications out of commission, uprooted trees and damaged scores of buildings. A Burlington railroad train was derailed near La Crosse but there were no casualties.

Baby Born With Fifty Fractures

Caroline Ruby Mercer, 30-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hansel Mercer of Indianapolis (shown here with the child) was born with fifty broken bones, but is improving, thanks to the wooden frame to which she was fastened and which facilitates knitting of the bones. The bones are so brittle that a doctor broke one of the child's thighs as he carefully lifted a leg for examination. What puzzles the doctors is that the child has a normal blood calcium content.

KRINN LISTS FIGURES TELLING PART OF COUNTY RELIEF TALE

Deputy Auditor Says Commissioners Not Opposed to State, Federal Relief and Are Willing to Co-operate; Petitions of Unemployed May Not Be Acted Upon.

"The county commissioners are not opposed to state and federal relief in Pickaway-co and have co-operated in every way with the State Relief commission and are willing to co-operate in the future as in the past."

This conclusion is included in a statement issued today by T. D. Krinn, deputy county auditor, who

$17,718.33 IN FUND

The statement reported a balance in the county emergency relief fund of $17,718.33, following the transfer.

Mr. Krinn's report says that since the beginning of the relief program on Dec. 1, 1933, total receipts coming into the county amounted to $36,328.40. This amount includes the sale of $20,000 worth of bonds by the county commissioners on Dec. 1, 1933.

Other receipts were as follows: For the emergency school program, $696.65; rural recovery program, $973.92; utility tax distribution, $7,825.17; selective sales tax distribution, $6,272.46; and family recovery program, $22.50.

The total sum expended since Jan. 1 is $18,610.07. The report shows. In the expenditures are included the monthly budgets submitted to the state relief commission by the county relief director here. These budgets represent the monthly allotments for Pickaway-co from January through June.

The budgets follow: January, $1,215; February, $1,090; March, $3,284; April, $3,785; May, $3,542; and June, $2,000. The total amount of the allotments for the six months is $14,917.

Money received for the emergency school, rural recovery and family recovery programs are (Continued on Page Two)

CITY FINANCE, RATES, SMITH DITCH TOPICS

Many Relief Bills Unpaid; Meeting Planned to Discuss Outlook

WATER IS APPROVED

Action on Unhealthy Ditch Expected Soon

A gloomy outlook for the city treasury the rest of the year appeared today as council studied its financial predicament. It was found none too bright.

As a result of this reported condition a meeting has been arranged for Wednesday, June 27, with members of the council finance committee, Mayor W. E. Cady, Safety Director L. R. Shaner, Service Director William Justice and Deputy Auditor T. D. Krinn invited to attend.

A general discussion of the city's financial status will be held at that time with Mr. Krinn expected to be able to enlighten the officials on what to expect during the remainder of 1934.

$600 BILLS UNPAID
Safety Director Shaner informed council that bills aggregating $600 have been presented him for burials, doctors' bills, medicine, groceries, etc., and that the poor fund is exhausted.

Service Director Justice also reported the appropriation for incidentals for public buildings has been depleted.

The matters were all referred to the finance committee upon motion.

A communication from Walnut Dark, Ohio Water Service Co. executive, that his company has approved the ordinance setting rates to be paid by consumers, for hydrant rental and for sprinkler systems.

The ordinance was passed May 2 by council and was approved by President John C. Goeller and Mayor W. B. Cady. It becomes effective as of that date.

The new ordinance provides for a charge of 10 cents in the minimum charge from $1.50 to $1.75, and in the fire hydrant rental paid by the city from $55 each per year to $40, and a minor reduction in the sprinkler systems of several industrial plants.

AWAIT GAS ACTION

Co-uncilman Frank Marion brought up the subject of negotiating with the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. for a new rate but President John Goeller said he thought it advisable to await the supreme court decision on the Columbus rate fight which he said would be handed down within a short time.

Mr. Marion said it was his opinion "that council should now start negotiations with the gas

SCHOOL HEAD FIGHTS BOARD

Frank Shelton, of Springfield, To Carry Ouster To High State Court.

COLUMBUS, June 21.—Frank M. Shelton, ousted Springfield, Ohio, superintendent of schools, today carried his fight for his position to the Ohio supreme court.

Counsel for Shelton who was retired as school head despite the fact that his contract does not expire until Sept. 1, 1936, filed a mandamus action in the state's highest court seeking a writ to restore Shelton to his position.

The action was filed by Attorney Homer C. Corry, of the law firm of Martin and Corry, of Springfield.

VOTE WAS 8-2
Shelton was discharged as school superintendent yesterday when the board of education voted 8 to 2 for his dismissal. He had been accused of incompetency in the discharge of his duty by Mrs. Amora H. Braun, woman member (Continued on Page Five)

WHAT COUNCIL DID

Heard a report of Safety Director Shaner that the pastor of the A. M. E. church has asked him for the old church bell to be used at his church. No action at that time. It is believed Mr. Shaner has the power to act.

Filed a report of the sale of the police department's motor-cycle to for $75.

Granted the hospital committee further time regarding drilling a well, and also referred changing the heating plant to the hospital committee.

in the expenditures, making a grand total of $18,610.07. Although indicating that the commissioners will co-operate with the state relief commission in the future the same as in the past, the Krinn indicated that this did mean that the commissioners would turn over all county relief funds to the state.

FIRM IN STAND
The commissioners are definitely opposed to granting the administration of county outside relief to the county relief director, who works through the state. The "state" cannot be budged from this stand.

Whether or not this refusal will cause the state to withdraw all state and federal relief funds at the end of June is not known, although Major E. O. Braught, director of the relief commission has said that "the commissioners must follow the rules and regulations of PERA and the state relief commission" to receive aid.

In the meantime, petitions were being circulated throughout the county insisting that the commissioners co-operate with the commission. Leaders of the movement expect to present the petitions to the commissioners at their meeting Monday and hope to have 5,000 signatures.

The commissioners expect to attend a meeting of the township trustees of Ohio in Columbus Monday, when poor relief will be discussed. It is not believed, therefore, that they will act on the petitions.

As Steel Strike Tie-up Looms Over U. S. Industry

Composite Steel Activity showing strikes, plants and workmen. Negotiations to avert a national steel strike scheduled for the coming week have been carried on between employees and Amalgamated union officials with the supervision of Gen. Hugh Johnson of NRA. Basic activity of American industry, steel has long been an accurate barometer of U.S. prosperity. Two imposing antagonists are Michael Tighe, union president, and Charles M. Schwab. Recalling the long history of labor's fruitless attempts to make the steel industry go closed shop, the Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Workers plan to push on to recognition this time.

WEST, WHITE VIE AT MANSFIELD TONIGHT

MANSFIELD, June 21.—Rafters at the auditorium here will bulge with politically-minded spectators tonight when two arch foes of the sanguinary Democratic contest—Congressman Charles West and Gov. George White—put on the gloves together for the first time.

Democrats swarmed into the "capital" of the Seventeenth Congressional district in the eager expectation of witnessing a bitter exchange of invectives. Apparently they were doomed to keen disappointment for the word went the rounds that the boys in the main event will be wearing 16-ounce gloves tonight.

Unless the unexpected, always lurking just around the corner at such events as this, does happen, no blood will be spilled either by the governor or his 39-year-old opponent, who has represented his district in Congress for two terms.

CROWD EXPECTED

In fact, by far the most serious jostling of the evening was expected from the spectators themselves, elbowing one another for a "close-up" of the principals in the most historic primary election fight Ohio has seen in many years.

There were a number of reasons why the first joint appearance of West and White should devolve into nothing more than a friendly sparring match, with each contestant bent more upon sizing up the other and looking for his most vulnerable spots than upon registering a telling blow.

First and foremost, it was the congressman's "coming out" party, his first campaign speech on the home lot since West's name suddenly was thrust into the Democratic senatorial contest by none other than the Roosevelt administration a week ago.

Both the governor and the congressman are what the prize ring knows as "gentleman fighters," at least they are at this early stage of the campaign. Under the circumstances, both will eschew the "rabbit punch" and confine the evening's entertainment to a little serious flag-waving.

From the shelter of the executive office in Columbus, White broadcast the statement that he would "take no shots" at West here. The congressman, likewise, was reported in a pacific frame of mind, ready to extend the usual courtesies of the home ball yard to the visiting gladiator.

EVENING PROMISING

For these political fans who find diversion in the imitation of bird calls the evening held considerable promise. Since both White and West will try to outdo the other in manifesting undiluted support of the president and his national recovery program, the cry of the "blue eagle" was expected to be a predominating strain of both their addresses.

Having started out to run for the senate on a platform built chiefly around a pledge of unalloyed support of Mr. Roosevelt, the governor has said he will not be swayed from his original course by the entry of the "New Deal's" own candidate, West.

Missing from tonight's oratorical event will be the third Democratic senatorial aspirant, former Gov. A. Vic Donahey. His message of regrets likely will be read from the "ringside" as White and West square away.

Donahey's antipathy for political rallies at which "the field" is represented is well known. When he announced his candidacy some weeks ago he summed up his attitude for this writer in these words:

"When I put on a show, especially in politics, I like to be the head man."

Two leading contenders for the Democratic gubernatorial endorsement—Lieut. Gov. Charles Sawyer and William G. Pickrel—were on the preliminary card. Martin L. Davey, the Democratic candidate for governor, was campaigning elsewhere.

In College Fatality

Held by Washington, Pa., police, on a formal charge of murder, George H. Bartholomew, top, 48-year-old wrestling coach and physical education director at Washington and Jefferson college in the city, admitted engaging in a fight with George T. Manis, 23, bottom, female impersonator and night club actor, whose dead body was found beneath a pile of brush by farmhands. Bartholomew told police the young entertainer had attempted to blackmail him.

swinging a towel for either West or White will be Henry G. Brunner, once Democratic state chairman and now Ohio chief of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. This is Brunner's home.

Although his name repeatedly has been linked with West's eleven-hour candidacy, Brunner, close personal and political friend of White, at least until the primary fight began, has denied he is playing favorites.

HIGHWAY AUTOCIDES SHOW NEED FOR GOVERNOR'S SAFETY PROGRAM

Urgent need for the safety campaign headed by Governor George White to reduce autocides on the highways of Ohio is graphically illustrated in the accompanying views of a fatal mishap in which a young man was mortally injured.

The accident occurred when the driver, believed to have fallen asleep, crashed into a culvert headwall and then on State Route 120 about 1 1/2 miles north of Versailles in Darke county.

The State Highway Department, in cooperation with the Highway Patrol, is collecting data on all accidents occurring on state highways outside municipalities in furtherance of Governor White's safety program to make travel safer for the motorists of Ohio.

THE BIG NEWS IS, THIS NEW "G-3" IS A SENSATION!

AND HERE'S WHY

HERE'S the tire that stood up under the toughest punishment a test fleet ever handed out. Brakes gave out—but the "G-3" All-Weather kept right on rolling. It kept its grip 43% longer than former All-Weathers—twice as long as other makes of tires tested against it.

That's the big news that Goodyear told in advertising—and it started a rush of buyers to our stores—and to every Goodyear dealer's straight across the country. This tire certainly has what car owners want—more miles of safety at no extra cost. Come in—see its heavier, wider, flatter tread with GRIP in the center—and see why Supertwist, Goodyear's patented ply material, provides the only body that can stand up to this mighty tread!

Primary Opens

ONE of the hottest senatorial primary fights in the history of Ohio will be officially opened at a Democratic rally to be held at Mansfield tonight.

It will be extremely interesting to watch the developments of tonight's meeting, because two men, who according to politicians, are to figure largely in the primary on the Democratic side, will sit on the same platform and launch their campaigns for votes.

And more interesting still will be a third figure who is expected to be on hand, Henry G. Brunner, former Democratic state chairman, who had apparently dropped out of the political picture until the recent movement was started to draft Congressman Charles West to run for senator.

Governor George White and Congressman West will both make campaign speeches at tonight's meeting. Both are expected to give a 100 percent endorsement of President Roosevelt's New Deal. The Congressman will be fitted to deliver a better speech on this point as he has been touring the country during the past year debating with Senator Dickinson (R) of Iowa on this very subject.

Governor White will also, in all probability, have something to say about his futile efforts to put through a legislative program during the recent session of the General Assembly.

Lurking behind White and West, however, will be Mr. Brunner, who apparently is a friend of both and as yet has refused to divulge his choice in the senatorial race. Mr. Brunner conferred with West in Columbus last week an hour or so before West finally decided to run for senator.

He has also conferred with Governor White during the past few days. Of the conference, Governor White said: "Heinie Brunner is still my personal and political friend."

As to his choice for senator, Mr. Brunner would merely say: "I'm for the Home Owners Loan Corporation." He happens to head that organization in Ohio.

The mystery behind Mr. Brunner's interest in the race is not apparent to the closest political observers. He has always been known to be a friend of Governor White's, but his recent interest in White's candidacy led some to believe that he was deserting the White camp. This is not true, however, or he would not hold conferences with the governor and discuss politics.

There is a possibility that Mr. Brunner is playing the role of "peace-maker" in the fight. Possibly he doesn't wish to see the campaign get too loud and uncontrollable, which "would" seriously impair the party's chances at the November election.

Whatever the role may be, it must not be denied that Mr. Brunner will figure in the campaign. He has many friends and much influence. It will be interesting to watch his future movements.

Publicity doesn't "glorify" the "gangster." A loose balloon would be given equal headlines.

Watching the Nazis

A CHARGE that rifles belonging to the New York national guard had been used for drilling purposes by Nazi groups was made the other day before the special house committee investigating foreign propaganda in this country.

It was made in testimony given by Frank Mutschinski, former commander of the German Steel Helms in New York.

Such a charge, of course, is a serious one, and seems almost too preposterous to be believed.

Major General William N. Haskell, commander of the New York national guard, was prompt to state his belief that Mutschinski's statement "can not be true." He left confident in his position because "all weapons are carefully secured for the exclusive use of the military service," and "strict regulations to that effect are in force."

This may be true, but the possibility of the regulations being violated is not to be discounted. The charge, at least, would seem to be deserving of investigation instead of being dismissed with an unsupported denial.

The Nazi movement in the United States has not assumed serious proportions, but this doesn't necessarily mean that it won't. Proper precautions need to be taken to see that no laws or military regulations are violated by those active in furthering it.

"THE LONE WOLF'S SON"

by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

SYNOPSIS

Michael Lanyard—formerly known as the "Lone Wolf," an underworld celebrity, but now a respected antique dealer—sails for America on the S.S. "Navarre." Aboard ship, he meets Detective Crane, of New York, who hunted the "Lone Wolf" years ago. They talk of Lanyard's reformation preceding his marriage, and the tragic death of his wife and children while he was at war. Later, Lanyard sees a young man dart into the passageway leading to his (Michael's) cabin. He is startled and perplexed by the youth's resemblance to himself. Mrs. Fay Crozier, one of Lanyard's wealthy patrons, and her lovely daughter Fenno, are also on board. Despite Mrs. Crozier's denial that she had been negotiating for the Habsburg emeralds, Lanyard believes he has found upon a guilty secret. Crane, hovering near and wondering why, because the detective claims he is no longer in government service. Fenno calls Lanyard's attention to "the handsome young man staring at him." It is the youth Lanyard is puzzled about. The man is Maurice Perry. Checking over the passenger list, Lanyard wonders why Maurice had made a hasty departure from a stateroom on A Deck when his own cabin is on C Deck. That night, Lanyard goes in search of the youth and finds him dancing with Fenno. Fay Crozier sends for Lanyard.

CHAPTER V

"I am sure madame didn't send for me to trade risqué fables and current stock quotations. Neither was it for the sake of my beaux yeux."

"What do you think, then?"

"That madame is too sensible to do me the injustice of asking me to guess."

"True—you're too clever." Madame made a brief stay on this, then a rueful mouth, "so you didn't believe me?" she inquired.

"That you hadn't been able to afford Rumbold's price? Oh, madame!"

"Well!" Fay Crozier said, with a shameless little laugh. "I couldn't tell who was listening, could I? The stewards have been known to tell the Customs people on passengers who bragged that they meant to smuggle."

"Surely you are not thinking of trying to avoid paying the duty?"

"I don't know why not. Everybody does it. And I'm sure I've used out as many ways as they never suspect. I hope I don't shock you?"

"One's private morals are a matter of one's conscience. Neither do I think so well of myself as ever to set up for a censor. It is rather the folly I would deplore, madame, of imagining that just because I am a Jew, I should be sold and the transaction kept secret."

"You can't have much opinion of my intelligence if you think I wasn't smart enough to buy through a third party." Fay Crozier with a gasp of her snowy head put the delectable by and her sunny self once more jumped up, scurried into the adjoining room, and returned to hand over, with conscious pride, a shagreen-covered case. "You said you'd be glad to see them again."

Lanyard lifted the lid, and for a long minute sat silent, his gaze constant to the seven great stones bedded in white satin, then pinched one out, held it to the light, and replaced it.

"May I ask, madame," he said in a reluctant voice, "if you are quite sure of the good faith of your go-between?"

"What are you driving at?"

"Rumbold's, of course, is above suspicion."

"Are you trying to tell me those aren't the Habsburg emeralds?"

"I am sorry, madame—they are not even plebeian emeralds."

With a low cry the woman pounced upon the case.

"What are they, then?"

"Zircon, madame, cunningly cut and stained to counterfeit the real jewels. You may not know how clever the Germans have grown at that sort of thing, of late years, how they have learned to process such soft semi-precious stones by sealing them in rebots with certain chemicals which, when subjected to great heat, release gases that dye the stones almost, if not quite, indelibly. These, for example, will fade if often exposed to sunlight. Exquisite forgeries, I grant you, but—"

"I quite see that," Fay Crozier huskily replied; and suddenly casting the case from her, sat down heavily and discolored haggard eyes. "What am I going to do about this?"

"First rid your mind of all bias in favor of the several parties involved in the transaction. Then review it step by step."

"It would only be time wasted. I tell you, they were the genuine stones that I bought—that were brought to me straight from Rumbold's by the person who made the actual purchase. I guess I ought to know; I stared them out of countenance time and again in Rumbold's."

"The Lone Wolf at his best was not more than human, madame. He accomplished nothing beyond the range of mortal ingenuity and perseverance. He was neither the first nor the last to master the mystery of safe-locks by means of patience and an educated sense of touch. Obviously the fellow knew the trick who substituted these pretenders for the imperial Habsburg emeralds tonight. When did you place them in your trunk, madame?"

"When I came below to dress."

"And only took them out again when you brought them in just now to show me? It seems to me the crime is plainly dated."

"But what shall I do? Inform the Captain?"

"Give me time to think—but half a minute," Lanyard let a bright but calculating look take in the easy proportions of the sitting-room, its tasteful furnishing and decoration. "One notices scarcely any motive worth mentioning here," he replied.

"Are you trying to tell me those aren't the Habsburg emeralds?" "I am sorry, madame—they are not even plebeian emeralds," Lanyard replied.

bold's private salesroom before I made up my mind I couldn't live without them and—old Rumbold I simply couldn't screw the price out of my husband and he'd better sell to the first party that came along with the cash. Then I gave Connie Trenholm a check and got her to do the dirty work—you know, Lady Ashlar. But she was Connie Trenholm when she toted a spear with me in the chorus, and I'll never get accustomed to her title. We figured, you see, the Customs people back home wouldn't take any notice of the transaction, because Connie's gone so British she makes Ashlar's lot look like Colonials, and she's never gone home since she married and swears she never will."

"And you feel quite sure she was to be so trusted?"

"I tell you, Connie brought the stones to me with her own hands, and I examined them and knew them; and they've never been out of mine a minute since, day or night; I carried them with me wherever I went and even slept with them under my pillow—until this evening."

"Why, I naturally figured nobody on board knew I had them, so it would be all right to leave them in the little safe that's built into my wardrobe trunk, with a combination lock and everything—"

"Would you care to wager a sum of money, the loser to pay it over to charity, I cannot solve the secret of that precious combination with my fingers in five minutes?"

"Oh, you perhaps, with your Lone Wolf training—"

marked, "We must be about midnight here."

"And you went down to dinner early?"

"Fay Crozier nodded. "As soon as the second call sounded."

"Did you observe anyone in the passageway or on the landing who seemed to be paying you special attention?"

"Why, there were so many people about at the time—"

"I am glad," Lanyard said after another reflective wait, "it occurs to you so soon to satisfy my curiosity. I have a theory. I may be wrong, but I do believe, if you will give me, say till noon day after tomorrow—and lend me these zircons meantime—I do believe I can restore the emeralds to you."

"I'm sure you can, if anyone. You are simply the kindest creature!"

"I promise merely to do my best—and that only on condition you promise me to hand the emeralds over to the purser for safe-keeping."

"But won't that mean I'll have to pay the duty?"

"Precisely, madame. Figure it yourself that since this theft proves you were known to have been the actual purchaser, the same information must have been open to informers in the pay of the American Customs—"

"Oh, have it your way," the woman cried with a tragic gesture. "I daresay you're right. I'll be good and pay up, like a little patriot."

Erysipelas Is No Longer Common

Science Conquers This Disease Which Once Took a Heavy Toll

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 United States senator from New York
 Former Commissioner of Health,
 New York City

FEW ARE aware of the great advances which have been made in the treatment and prevention of infectious diseases. Shortly after the war between the states, Lord Joseph Lister, an English physician, advocated the necessity of what we now call "surgical cleanliness." His theories, although revolutionary, were fortunately accepted. They resulted in a great reduction in the numbers of serious fatal infections which are commonly encountered in homes, hospitals and public institutions.

Prior to the days of Doctor Lister, and for some time after, erysipelas was a common and often fatal infection. In those days the disease was known as "Saint Anthony's fire" and little hope could be offered its victims. In most instances serious and even fatal complications occurred. The dreaded disease annually took a dreadful toll of lives.

Today the disease is less frequently seen. This can only be explained by our increased knowledge of infection and our ability to prevent it. In addition, medical science now offers special methods of treatment that aid in combating the disease and reducing the danger of complications.

This disease is caused by a germ called the "streptococcus hemolyticus." This germ enters the body through an abrasion, wound, scratch or break in the skin.

Perhaps the most characteristic symptom is the skin eruption which soon appears. The surface becomes red and swollen, with a sharp, clean-cut elevated border. Blisters form in the reddened area and the inflammation spreads rapidly.

Gold compresses of gauze saturated in a solution of magnesium sulphate, give relief from the burning pain. At times a 10 to 20 per cent strength of ichthyol ointment is beneficial.

Method of Treatment

Another aid is painting the skin beyond the border of the lesion with tincture of iodine or a strong solution of silver nitrate. This is believed to stop the advance of the infection. I am letting you know about these methods of treatment because of some emergency which may demand immediate care. But, of course, your doctor must see the patient as soon as possible.

Perhaps the greatest advancement in the treatment of this disease, as well as its prevention, is the use of "erysipelas streptococcus antitoxin." This serum with the big name is obtained by immunizing horses against the poisons or toxins of the erysipelas germ. Then the fluid part of the blood is used to prepare the serum.

With care erysipelas can be avoided. Never neglect an injury of the skin. Bear in mind that a scratch, laceration or tear of the skin permits dirt and bacteria to enter and set up an infection. Proper hygiene of the

AT THE CLIFTONA

Credit Walter Hampden, renowned Shakespearean, with the presence in Hollywood of Evelyn Venable, featured player in Paramount's "Death Takes a Holiday," now playing at the Cliftona Theatre.

Arriving in Los Angeles in the spring of 1933 in Hampden's company, Miss Venable had no picture plans; in fact, no plans at all, side of continuing the tour and in time launching a Shakespearean company of her own. Hampden advised her to accept a contract offer from Paramount, save the money and in time finance her own repertoire of the Bard's plays.

She accepted the offer, but finished the season with Hampden. Back at Paramount last July, she was immediately cast with Dorothy Dickson in "Cradle Song," and now she has won a feature role opposite Fredric March in "Death Takes a Holiday."

Answers to Health Queries

Mother. Q.—My little girl of three has whooping cough with severe choking paroxysms. What would you advise? What precautions should I take to safeguard her and to protect other children with whom she is apt to come in contact?

A.—Have your doctor advise you. The child should be kept away from other children until the disease has run its course. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. (Copyright, 1934, E. F. A., Inc.)

Note For David Lehr

PARIS—A French 10-centime piece with the inscription, "David Lehr, cook. Batt. D. 7 F. A. U. S. A. 1918. 127617" is today in the possession of the Paris Legion post. It probably has passed through hundreds of thousands of hands since the one-time cook in the Seventh Field Artillery scaped his name on it.

Most frequent causes of low grade hay are in the field, late cutting and over-curing; in storage, browning or mold burning of hay; in baling, loss of leaves while baling brittle hay on dry days.

THREE ENTERTAIN FOR RECENT BRIDE WEDNESDAY

Miss Maxine Acord, Miss Alice Seothorn and Miss Nellie Oesterle, of Ashville, entertained at the former's home in Ashville, Wednesday evening, with a bridge party and miscellaneous shower complimenting Mrs. Earl K. Drum, the former Elizabeth Hay of Ashville, whose marriage was recently announced.

Rainbow colors were carried out in the decorations throughout the home. A profusion of colorful flowers in large baskets were placed to advantage in the rooms where the guests were assembled. A rainbow made of crepe paper with the pot of gold at the end containing the gifts was the clever idea carried out in the shower.

Mrs. William Baker, of Groveport, and Mrs. Drum were winners of prizes in the bridge game. Guests included Mrs. William Baker, of Groveport; Miss Louise Carpenter, of Orient; Mrs. J. A. Drum, Miss Mary Francis Boon, of Columbus; Mrs. Martin Cromley, Miss Francis Weiser, Miss Esther Mae Petty, Miss Elizabeth Cromley, Miss Ruth Allison, Mrs. E. B. decks were at an angle that made walking difficult. Pandemonium reigned. With the shore of Kar-nice island right before their eyes more than 100 of the passengers donned lifebelts and jumped into the water 30 feet below.

The Dresden had slid off the rock which had sheared a long hole in its side and was making for the shallow water off shore. But the water was dampening her fires and the ship was sinking fast so Captain William Petermoeller ordered the life boats lowered.

BOATS CAPSIZED

The first lifeboat was still suspended about 20 feet above the water filled with women when the ship gave another lurch and the boat capsized in midair. All those in the boat were thrown into the water.

Fortunately the Dresden's SOS had been answered by the nearby steamer King Harold and sailors from the latter ship managed to rescue most of them.

So great was the list of the ship that only the stern lifeboat on one side could be lowered. Unfortunately this one struck a propeller of the multi-screw ship which by this time was well out of the water. This boat also capsized and the same scene of women who could not swim clinging to others who could was repeated. Here again although the sea was choppy, most of the passengers were rescued.

Launching of other lifeboats was suspended as it was evident that the vessel soon would be beached. In a few minutes the Dresden struck again, this jolt a welcome one. The remaining passengers were transferred to shore by the fishing craft which clustered about, difficulty being experienced only with the many wounded.

The state department today started to make arrangements with the Canadian government for the flight of the flying armada over Canadian territory.
